OVER THIRTY KILLED

And a Score Injured by a Boiler Explosion in Detroit.

A BIG BUILDING DEMOLISHED.

Fourteen Dead Bodies Already Recovered and Twenty-seven Others Missing. Most or All of Whom are Doubtless Buried Beneath the Wreckage.

DETROIT, Nov. 7.—A gaping rent nearly forty feet wide from top to bottom of a five-story business block, a dozen dead bodies recovered, a score of persons injured and more than half a million missing, with a certainty that many more dead bodies are beneath the ruins, is the result of an explosion which started the city yesterday and today wrecked about a third of the building at the corner of Larned and Shelby streets, occupied by the Detroit Evening Journal and several other tenants.

At 10 o'clock the whole neighborhood was terrified by a fearful shock, caused by the exploding of the boilers in the basement of the Journal building. Plate glass windows across the street and some of them farther away were shattered by the concussion, and several persons were cut by falling glass. At the same instant the two floors and roof of that section of the building collapsed and fell to the basement, carrying with it at least fifty persons. The cloud of dust was quickly succeeded by smoke from the fires, which started in the ruins. The work of rescue was rushed to the utmost all day and last night, but progress has necessarily been very slow.

The dead thus far taken from the ruins are: Lizzie Tapley, aged 20, employed by Davis & Co.; Henry Walsh, employed by Kohlbrecht Engraving company; John J. Reuter, apprentice in the employ of Dunlap & Co.; George H. Soule, engraver; George Shaw, miller, Detroit Journal; Willie Hawes, 16 years old, miller, Detroit Journal; Henry Lawrence, employed in mailing room of Journal; Carrie Bauer, bookkeeper in Hillier's factory; Mattie Miller and Minnie Lesebinder, employees; E. L. Rigger, machinist; James Ross, William W. Dunlap and an unknown boy, supposed to be John Bowman, employed by Kohlbrecht & Co., the features being unrecognizable.

The wrecked portion of the building, which is owned by the Newberry estate, was separated from the rest of the structure by a fire wall. The first floor of that section was occupied by the John Davis company, dealers in druggists' specialties, and by the Journal mailing department. The second, third and fourth floors were occupied by the Davis company, W. W. Dunlap & Co., machinists, and the Hillier Book bindery. The editorial rooms of the Journal are on the fourth floor, but situated beyond the fire wall, and the staff escaped injury. The Journal's stereotyping room, on the fifth floor, was directly in the path of the explosion and went down in the wreck. A few dead miraculously escaped and came staggering from the ruins after the awful shock, scarcely knowing themselves what had befallen them.

Arthur D. Lynch, a Journal stereotyper, who went down with the wreck from the top floor, was pulled from the ruins entirely conscious. He was preparing a matrix, and when he fell he was protected by the great iron steam table.

Mr. Jacobs, a paper dealer, who had been in Hillier's bindery, had just left the building when the crash came. He thought there must have been twenty girls and four or five boys in the bindery, besides George J. Hillier, the proprietor, of whom nothing has been seen or heard since the accident.

From the lists of tenants and employees secured it seems certain that fifty people in all were in the collapsed section. There are still twenty-seven persons unaccounted for, and it is more than fair to presume that most or all of them are among the dead. At every hour reports are received of others who are missing, and relatives and friends have been unable to find any trace of them.

Two of the large number of injured who are in the hospital will probably not recover. Of these who are now in the ruins it is hard to say that any will be rescued alive. Those who were not killed outright have undoubtedly perished, either from suffocation or exhaustion. The only hope is that some of those who are reported missing may be safe with friends. The total death rate will not be known before tonight. It may be even longer before the workmen reach the basement floors of the fallen building and the total number of lives lost is known to a certainty.

Caution is undoubtedly the cause of this disaster, but where the responsibility rests is yet problematical. Thomas Thompson, the engineer, was painfully injured. He said he could assign no reason for the explosion. City Boiler Inspector N. Wilson says he inspected the boilers last August and had found them in good condition. Some of the employees in the building assert that the boilers were old and known to be unsafe. Still others have a theory that the explosion was caused by chemicals owned by the Davis company, stored in the basement.

Another circumstance is also considered significant, namely, that carpenters were engaged in shoring up the floor of the second story directly over the boilers. In order to sustain the weight of a heavy machine which had been placed in Dunlap's machine shop. The men who were at work at this job were entangled in the ruins.

The most shocking scene of finding the basement was a struggle between Governor Butler and an undertaker in the employ of the brothers against Undertaker Frank Gibbs. The latter, clinging to the mother while the body was being carried through the crowd, and as the speculators were becoming excited over the ghastly scene the police in the interest of order, rushed Gibbs outside the fire lines and would not permit him to return.

Drowned While Fishing from Curseers. WILLIAMSON, Pa., Nov. 7.—A man named JAMES, of Jersey shore, was drowned in the Susquehanna river at Nesh. He and three other men had been engaged in a fight with an equal number of men belonging to Nesh. The former combatant were so fatigued that they were unable to swim across to the shore. When about half way across Evans sank and was drowned.

The King of Portugal in London. LONDON, Nov. 7.—King Charles, of Portugal, arrived at Charing Cross yesterday afternoon from Sheerness and was received in state. The king was driven to Buckingham palace and went to Sandringham in the afternoon as the guest of the Prince of Wales.

Ex-Minister Baker Dying. MASCHOUTAN, Ills., Nov. 7.—John Baker, ex-congressman and ex-United States minister to Venezuela, is reported to be dying at his home in Belleville. He has been dangerously ill the last week. Mr. Baker has been prominent in Illinois politics fifty years. He gained a national reputation ten years ago, when he defeated Colonel William R. Morrison for congress in the old Eighteenth district.

Guatemalans Arrested in Mexico. CITY OF MEXICO, Nov. 7.—The collector of the Frontier custom house of Zapatlita, state of Chiapas, is reported to have arrested several Guatemalans who had arrived there to buy cattle. The only excuse was that the men had $5,000. The collector alleges that he thought they were smugglers. He had to release them for lack of proof.

THE ELECTION FIGURES.

Smith Chosen the Minority Judge in Pennsylvania.

KENTUCKY IS NOW REPUBLICAN.

Colonel Bradley Unanimously Elected Governor by 5,600 Plurality—Griggs' Plurality in New Jersey Is 37,247. White New York Increases the Republican Plurality to 66,923.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 7.—Complete returns from all but six counties in the state show a plurality for Haywood, with the vote in the six counties estimated, of 169,811. A Republican gain of 31,705, as compared with 1892. The official returns will not materially alter these figures. Judge Peter P. Smith, dem., of Lackawanna, is elected the seventh member of the superior court by about 2,000 plurality over his next competitor, Judge Yerkes. Judge Mager's failure to get a substantial vote in Philadelphia destroyed his chances of winning the coveted position. The official figures will probably show that Judge Beaver heads the Republican superior court ticket.

The following table shows the pluralities for Haywood and Myers, together with the gains and losses as compared with the vote cast in 1892 for state treasurer when Jackson, rep., had a plurality of 135,140:

THE AVALANCHE IN MARYLAND.

It Shows a Majority of 19,701 for Lloyd Lowmides.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 7.—The people of Maryland, having recovered from the surprise caused by Tuesday's political avalanche, are beginning to inquire how it happened, and what the result of it is going to be. Congressman George L. Wellington, chairman of the Republican state committee, states it up in a few words as follows:

"The people of Maryland are tired of Gorman and Gormanism, of Rasin and Rasinism, and they backed their sentiments with their ballots."

Chairman Hatterly W. Talbot, of the Democratic state committee, said: "The chief reason, I think, was hostility to Senator Gorman throughout the city and state. Many Democrats did not approve of the senator's course in congress, and all the filth which have afflicted the people for the past two years have been attributed to him and his course at Washington."

The members of the Reform league, upon the other hand, assert that the result was, to a very considerable extent, brought about by their work at the polls in preventing election frauds.

Returns from every county in the state, partly estimated, give Lloyd Lowmides, rep., a majority over John E. Hurst, dem., for governor of 19,701. The majorities by counties are as follows:

GRIGGS' BIG PLURALITY.

General Returns Give Him 37,247 Vote in New Jersey—His Plurality in New York Is 66,923.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The magnitude of the Republican sweep in New Jersey did not become apparent until yesterday afternoon, when the official returns, 4,314 with the different county clerks, showed the splendid gains of the Republican ticket on election night and the best return that could be obtained fell short of the goal.

The election of Griggs was known to be a certainty at 10 o'clock on election night, but at that hour 12,000 and 11,000 was all that the leaders of the Republican party claimed. As the night grew older they advanced their claims, under the influence of the press returns, to 22,000. The results in the counties as filed show that Griggs received 27,327 plurality over McGill.

The election of Mr. Griggs is the first time in thirty years that the Republicans have elected a governor, and they are now in control of almost every department of the state government, and during the three years Mr. Griggs has to serve those offices now held by Democrats who may not be removed except for cause, will have expired, with a few exceptions, and Mr. Griggs will have the right to fill them.

For two years of his term he will have a Republican senate, even should the Democrats carry the entire seven senators who retire next fall.

The list of offices to be filled during the next three years is a long one, and there are some rich plums which the governor may give out.

The legislature is Republican on a joint ballot by forty and one independent.

Justice Henderson and Wayne counties alone gave pluralities for McGill. Every other county returned Republican pluralities. Griggs' majority over all is about 30,000.

The following table gives the pluralities by counties for governor this year and in 1892:

COUNTIES.	1895.	1892.
Atlantic.....	1,379	285

Totals.....	31,711	7,012
Pluralities.....	27,327	7,012

This makes Griggs' plurality over McGill 27,327, against a Democratic plurality in 1892 of 7,012. A Republican gain of 20,315 votes.

KENTUCKY SURELY REPUBLICAN.

Governor-Elect Bradley Being Boomed as a Presidential Candidate.

LOUISVILLE, Nov. 7.—Republican claims and Democratic concessions show that not only has Kentucky elected the full Republican state ticket, but that the complexion of the legislature assures a Republican successor to United States Senator Blackburn. General Hardin, Bradley's opponent for the governorship, admits his defeat.

State Auditor Norman, the Democratic campaign chairman, in a statement to The Commercial said that Blackburn's defeat is assured. "The Republicans, with the help of the Populists, will assuredly control the legislature," he said, "and Blackburn is sure to be defeated. Kentucky is now a Republican state. The public have made a change and they took it. The Republicans being aided by both Populists and A. P. A's. No Democrat could have carried Kentucky at this election, not even Carlisle."

Dr. W. G. Hunter, chairman of the Republican state campaign committee, yesterday gave a statement to the press, which is taken by others at 5:00. "The Republican ticket is elected by round pluralities," he said, "and the legislature will be Republican on joint ballot, but I do not make any guesses. I am waiting for authentic figures."

Already Governor-Elect Bradley has been decided upon as the choice of the Republicans of this state for the presidency, and his friends claim that he will have the support of the southern Republicans. It is a significant fact that the friends of Governor Morton, as well as the political champions of Governor McKinley, have all been in constant correspondence with the friends of Colonel Bradley, and have urged them to push his claims for second place on the ticket.

Nebraska Republican by Ten Thousand.

OMAHA, Nov. 7.—It returns from the several counties in the state upon the vote cast for judge of the supreme court are being received with unusual slowness. The partial returns indicate the election of Judge Norval, rep., by over 10,000 plurality. On the other hand, Governor Holcomb and J. W. Edgerton, chairman of the Populist state central committee, assert that Judge Maxwell has been elected. Neither will make public the figures upon which they base their assertions. Governor Holcomb said this morning that Norval's lead in the returns so far published is made possible by the fact that only the vote from the strong Norval towns had so far been received. The vote of the administration, or sound money wing of the Democratic party, is four-fifths of the entire party vote of the state, probably 25,000. This assures the defeat of the silver interests unless there is a great change of sentiment in the party ranks during the next six months along financial lines.

Brooklyn's Majority Contest.

BROOKLYN, Nov. 7.—It looks now as if the majority contest would be transferred to the courts. Mr. Grout, the Democratic candidate, refuses to concede the election of Mr. Wurster, his Republican opponent, and the regular Democratic campaign committee has retained General Albert F. Jenks and Abram H. Daily to look after Mr. Grout's interest. A meeting of the regular executive committee has been called for the purpose of taking further action in the matter. Mr. Grout declares that it was evident that the returns that came out of police headquarters were not to be relied upon, and that there will be every means taken to properly examine the vote. The returns as given show Wurster's plurality to be 2,214.

New York's Increased Republican Majority.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—The total unofficial vote for secretary of state is: King, dem., 605,590; Palmer, rep., 572,525. This makes Palmer's plurality 33,065. The vote in 1892 was: Palmer, 345,098; Myer, 320,614. Palmer's plurality (1892), 24,484. The assembly stands: Republicans, 102; Democrats, 48. This gives the Republicans a majority of 54 on joint ballot.

Greenhalge's Plurality About 63,000.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—Republican leaders are particularly pleased over the gains of Governor Greenhalge in this city, for they claim it shows that the people are coming over to their ranks. The Democrats, on the other hand, say they attach no significance whatever to the decreased Democratic plurality in the city, other than that their candidate was not personally as popular as Russell, the candidate of 1894. Those who claimed the state for Greenhalge by 67,577 and 63,550 plurality are reducing their estimates as the official figures are given out. His plurality is placed at about 63,000.

Foraker for United States Senator.

COLUMBUS, Nov. 7.—Chairman Anderson, of the Ohio Executive state committee, conveys the state to the Republicans by 91,000. Chairman Kurtz says Bushnell's plurality will not be less than 100,000. The vote for Coker, Populist, will be about 15,000 less than last year's Populist vote of 9,000. The only consolation for the Populists is the election of W. F. Conley for state senator in the Thirty-second district. Conley was endorsed by the Republicans and defeated Lawler, of Lima, the home candidate of Senator Brice. He has declared for Foraker for senator. The senate will stand: Republicans, 3; Democrats, 6; Fusion Populists, 1. In the house the Republicans have 87 and the Democrats 25. The Republicans have a majority of 62 on joint ballot.

Senator Allison's Re-election Assured.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 7.—Iowa is Republican this year by from 60,000 to 70,000 plurality. Drake, the Republican candidate for governor, has gained 23,000 over the Jackson vote for governor in 1893. His colleagues on the Republican ticket are running much ahead of him. The general assembly is overwhelmingly Republican, assuring the return of Senator Allison. On joint ballot the Republicans have 69 majority-out of 130 votes.

Large Republican Gains in Kansas.

TOPEKA, Nov. 7.—The latest returns received from all parts of Kansas show large gains for the Republicans. Many counties that have been Populist for four years elected all the Republican candidates. Judge Martin, rep., is overwhelmingly elected chief justice of the supreme court. Republicans elect four out of five district judges. Dale, pop., in Sedgewick county, being the only successful opposition candidate for the bench.

Populist Decline in Mississippi.

JACKSON, Nov. 7.—The latest news from the election gives the Democratic majority of from 25,000 to 30,000. Estimates based on nearly complete returns show that the Populists did not receive 10 per cent. of the total vote cast. The present legislature contains twenty-five Populists, and the next one, which will elect a successor to Senator George, will not have more than eight, all the rest being Democrats.

Utah Surely Republican.

SALT LAKE, Nov. 7.—The Republicans have elected the state ticket and carried the legislature by a safe majority. Returns from the most populous parts of the territory give Allen, rep., for congress, a majority of 61, which it is claimed will be increased to 1,000. Wells' majority for governor will be considerably larger.

Stabbed in an Election Riot.

NEW YORK, Nov. 7.—John B. McGoldrick, clerk of the supreme court and secretary of Tammany Hall, is lying in a dangerous condition at his home, the result of a stab wound received in an election wrangle on Tuesday. Although the affair is said to have occurred at 4 o'clock in the afternoon no report was made of it, and the first intimation of it was had when William Dowling, a bartender, was arraigned in the Jefferson Market police court yesterday charged with having stabbed McGoldrick. The patrolman who arrested Dowling said the prisoner had struck McGoldrick on the head with a glass, but the police surgeon declares that there is a stab wound which may have penetrated the lung, and that McGoldrick's condition is critical. Dowling was held to await the result of McGoldrick's injuries.

The St. Paul's Speedy Trip.

LEXINGTON, Nov. 7.—The American line steamer St. Paul, Captain Jamison, from New York for Southampton, reached the Needles at 1:20 yesterday afternoon, making her time 6 days, 22 hours and 20 minutes, or about fourteen hours better time than her previous record. The eastern Southampton record is held by the Fair Bismarck, and is 6 days, 10 hours and 35 minutes.

The Government Receipts.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—The receipts from internal revenue yesterday were $392,882, from customs, $80,550, and miscellaneous, $20,001. The national bank notes received yesterday for redemption amounted to $79,913.

THE POWERS' PROTEST.

It Must be Quickly Obeyed by the Turkish Government.

MAY ORDER A DISPLAY OF FORCE

Foreign Representatives in the Sultan's Realm Becoming Disheartened at the Failure of the Government to Repress Atrocities Upon the Helpless Armenians.

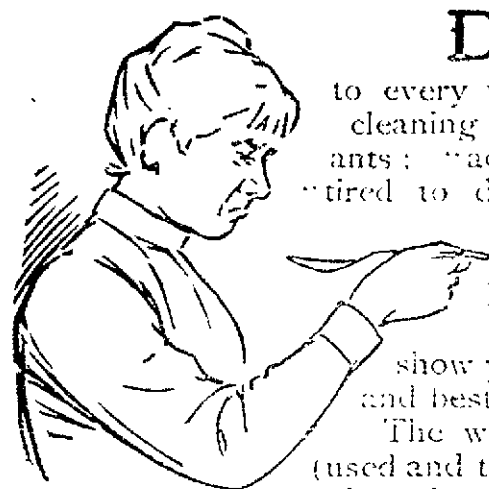

CONSTANTINOPLE, Nov. 7.—Kamil Pasha, the grand vizier, resigned yesterday. He will probably be succeeded by Said Pasha, formerly grand vizier and now minister for foreign affairs, and the latter will be succeeded by Tewfik Pasha, Turkish ambassador to Germany, now en route to Constantinople.

The report that the ambassadors of the powers, owing to the recurring disturbances in various parts of the Turkish empire, went to the ports separately on Tuesday and urged that immediate and adequate measures for the restoration of order be taken is confirmed in official circles. The representatives of the powers declared that otherwise the powers, acting in concert, would take their own steps in the matter, and the Turkish minister for foreign affairs, Said Pasha, was requested to state what steps the porte intends to take in order to terminate the present state of affairs.

It is stated that the ambassadors called the most serious attention of the porte to the condition of affairs in Anatolia, which they view with anxiety and reminded the Turkish government of the intervention of the powers in Syria at the time of the massacres of 1890, and asked what measures the Turkish authorities proposed to take to re-establish order. No definite reply on this subject has been received, although the ambassadors were assured that everything possible would be done to restore order. But assurances of this nature have been so repeatedly given that very little faith is placed in them, and it will require definite statements and proofs of the willingness of the Turkish government to maintain order to satisfy the ambassadors.

The consular report of the attack recently made upon Diarbekir capital of a vilayet of the same name, situated near Tigris, states that the marauders were commanded by the Sheikh of Zeilan, who is known to have been implicated in the murder of Armenians at Sassoun. The French consul, for a time, was in imminent danger of being killed, being besieged in his house by the rioters. When he was able to do so the consul telegraphed to the French ambassador at Constantinople, M. Cambon

ONCE WORE CROWNS.

SEVEN EUROPEAN WOMEN WHO HAVE LOST THEIR THRONES.

None of Them Wants For the Comforts or Even the Luxuries of Life, but They Are All Exceedingly Unhappy. So 'Tis Said. Eccentric Ex-Queen Marie of Naples.

Although it cannot be pleasant to be a queen out of a job, there is one thing about it—none of the ex-queens of today is in want so far as the comforts and even the luxuries are concerned, save the luxury of a throne to sit upon. As this, however, is the one luxury which ex-queens are supposed most to desire, it is likely that more or less unhappiness is now the portion of the seven European women who were but are not royalists.

It is not easy to say which of these women is most interesting. Eugenie, the ex-empress of the French, has probably had the most romantic and picturesque career, and probably also she is most unhappy, since she is utterly without kin among reigning families and mourns the death of a son, the prince imperial, who was killed in the English-Zulu war, as well as that of a husband. Concerning this son it is stated that when, driven to desperation by his mother's constant repinings against fate, he announced his design of going to fight the Zulus, two score young Frenchmen offered to go with him and act as a guard of honor. This, however, was not pleasing to the ex-empress, who said her son must be protected as much but no

MARIE SOPHIE, EX-QUEEN OF NAPLES more than others, and there is no doubt that now she blames herself for the young man's death.

Ex-Queen Isabella of Spain, mother of the Infanta Eulalia, who visited America some years ago, lives comfortably in Paris on an income of $100,000 a year, and even now, though not far from 60, sometimes behaves herself in a manner that would be termed scandalous if she were of ordinary birth and was declared outrageous by the infanta while the latter was visiting her mother recently.

The widow of the Emperor Frederick of Germany, son of the great Emperor William and father of the present emperor of that name, is of spotless reputation, as are all the daughters of England's Queen Victoria. Perhaps her case is most pathetic of all. She is a woman of literary tastes and ability, of liking for art, of much more than average mental power, and her influence over her husband during his life was potent and for good. During all the later years of the great William this woman looked forward to the time when her husband should be emperor and she should sit with him upon the imperial throne, only to really occupy it for the brief time that elapsed between his father's death and his own from a deadly cancer.

An eccentric ex-queen is the widow of Francis, who lost the throne of Naples when Italy was unified, years before his death. He was rich, and his wealth was so increased during his life that she is even richer than they were when they quitted Naples. Being of economical habits, they lived for years in furnished apartments in Paris. His widow's name is Marie Sophie, and she is the sister of the empress of Austria and of the Duchess of Alencon. She passes for a beauty, is tall, slender and an accomplished housewife. It was her custom occasionally before her husband died to hire the Hippodrome, where in the presence of only the eking and servants she used to appear in the costume of a circus rider—tights, brief skirts and all—and jump through hoops, ride bareback at full speed and perform all the other feats of professional equestrianism. She is also a good water woman and delights in boating, being an adept both at the oars and the management of a sailboat. She is clever at repartee, and once, when her acquaintance was claimed by an old man who said she had been his guest at a hotel named the Crown, which he kept, she retorted quickly: "Do you keep the Crown? Well, you do better than I was able to."

She intends soon to abandon the apartment in Paris where she lived with the ex-king so long and then will go to live with her sister, the empress of Austria. Of the unhappy Empress Carlotta of Mexico, who has been insane ever since the tragedy that bereft her of both throne and husband, the world only knows that she is harmless; that her hair has turned white, and that she is ever looking for her Maximilian, whose death she cannot be made to understand. Natalie of Serbia, the divorced wife of ex King Milan, seems always to have enjoyed life as much since she quitted the throne as before.

The empress dowager of Russia, whose son is now the autocrat of that country, is despondent and retiring, affected by a nervous weakness which came to her soon after the accident to the imperial train, caused by a dynamite explosion planned by the nihilists.

The Whale and the Sprat.

As the whale and the sprat
Came down Ararat,
They felt a desire to go on a bat.
Said the sprat to the whale,
"Shall we travel by rail,
Or would you prefer just an afternoon sail?"

Said the whale to the sprat,
"I should much prefer that.
The land always makes me sick as a cat."

Said the sprat to the whale;
"Will you have a cocktail
To tone up your system? You look rather pale."

Said the whale to the sprat,
"I am getting too fat,
I am drinking too much, but I can't resist that."

Then the sprat and the whale
Had another cocktail,
And several others, and then they tookale.

So the whale and the sprat
They played till for fat
From the straits of Belle Isle to the antarctic lat.

Till sprat said to whale,
"Do let me go and
On your delicate stomach with toast under quail."

"My dear Mr. Sprat,
I really am gratified at your offer." So down they both sat.

Said the sprat to the whale,
"I admire your tail;
I should think it would be of such use to a gale."

Said the whale to the sprat,
"I admire your chat—
So charming I hardly know where I am at."

"The people all quarrel
When I swim by my tail,
And I thrust the harpooners like chaff
with a flail."

"I lay the seas flat
As a crumpled sheet,
Or churn them all up like the froth in a vat."

"The sea is my path,
The chop and the glide
Are the things when I shake it to see if it's stable."

"Dear me," said the sprat,
"That's all very fat,
But a young lady would not talk through your tail."

Then the high deighen whale
Flew off on a trip,
And he rounded the Horn with a flap of his tail.

Said the little sprat,
"I am well out of that!"
And he worked to himself as he tied his cravat.

Condensed Guide to Politeness.

Don't visit slight acquaintances for a longer period than a month. If you do, however, do not complain about the food.

When you visit relatives, be generous. Do not insist on their returning the visit.

If a servant pinches your watch or other valuables, do not complain to your hostess. Take one of hers. You stand a good chance of getting the better of the bargain.

It is considered de trop in the boudoir to use your hostess' carriage more than eight hours a day.

Don't gossip about your hostess until you have concluded your visit. Do not get so interested in her private correspondence as to become preoccupied, unless you are quite sure she will not return unexpectedly.

Do not spank her children, for her, or offer to lighten her sorrows by poisoning any of her canines and felines.

When a guest do not borrow anything but money. You would have to return anything else.

Be little-some and cheerful. In a word, act as though you were entirely at home, which is equivalent to saying do not act as you do when you are at home.—Truth

SOME BRIGHT CHILDREN.

A Little Girl With a Remarkable Imagination.

These are stories of a child, a remarkable young person. She was about 5 years old and had bright brown eyes and a large imagination. She would make the wildest statements with the most demure air and then put her head on one side and watch you with dancing eyes to see if you took in the joke. If she could find some one that would appear to believe any and everything she said, she was in her element and would reel off marvelous stories by the hour. The room of a family friend was a regular curiosity shop for her, and she would sit and listen by the hour to descriptions of various odd things that were in the collection of curiosities. She took a great interest in a magnet used for a paperweight and would play with it when even her best beloved doll had lost its charms. One day she walked into the room with an exceedingly important air.

"What do you think I saw?" she said.

"I don't know, I'm sure. A bear?" was the reply.

"No, sir. I saw a little girl what had swallowed a magnet, and what do you think happened to her? Every time she goes to eat her spoon hangs right down her front, and the other day she was playing with some nails, and the first thing she knew she swallowed 'em, and her mamma gave her a penny to buy some candy with, and she swallowed it 'fore she got to the store. Ain't that droll?" she exclaimed.

"Fearful! What did she do for her?"

She paused a moment, evidently unprepared for such a question, but her invention was equal to the emergency. "Why," she said, with big eyes and bated breath, "they got a great big magnet—oh, a 'horrible big one'—and opened her mouth, and all the things came out again."

She had been told about a trained dog, and after that she would have some wonderful tale of a dog to tell every time she saw her acquaintance.

"I was down town this morning," she would say, "and I saw a dog, and he was walking on his hind legs, and he had on bloomers."

"What for? Then he must have been a lady dog."

"Yes, he was, and he got on a bicycle and rode off."

As Bess had such a reputation for remembering naturally she was often disbelieved when telling the truth. One cold night she woke her mother and announced that a mouse was in bed with her.

"Bessie," scolded her mother, rather cross at being waked from a comfortable sleep, "you must not tell such stories. It is very naughty, and mamma will have to punish you."

"But, mamma, this is a mouse. I feel it crawling up my leg."

A little quaver of fear in her voice made her mother believe there might be a small amount of truth in the story, so she got up to investigate.

"Now," she said, "if there isn't a mouse there, mamma is going to whip." And she lifted the covers carefully off.

"Here it is," and Bess drew up her little gown, disclosing a plump little leg with a very small and miserable little mouse snuggled up against it.

One shriek after another soon awoke the whole household, and the room was filled with bewildered people gazing at Bess and the frightened mouse. While some one was removing the poor little animal Bess was regarding her mother with triumph.

"Didn't I tell you it was a mouse?" she exclaimed. "What you so scared about now?"

Bess' mother is a young and attractive widow, and a young minister was much interested in her spiritual welfare. Bess did not admire him much, owing to his habit of taking her to task occasionally for some little fib. One day he came to call and encountered Bess on the front porch. He presented her with a box of caramels, and being quite sure her mother was in hearing distance, though out of sight behind the parlor curtains, he took occasion to indulge in a few affecting remarks concerning the happiness of being allowed to minister to the fatherless babes. Bess had heard "Chimnie Edden" read and quoted quite frequently, and looking up into the minister's face with her wide innocent eyes she remarked, "What 'tells'?"

"Huh—what did you say?" stammered the astounded man.

"What 'tells'?" repeated Bess.

He gazed at her for a few minutes in blank amazement, and then the sound of smothered merriment coming from the parlor windows recalled him to his senses, and after a wild look around as for a refuge he left.

Ethel is the only child of a college professor and was left without a mother, so her training has been rather different from other children, and she is very old and thoughtful in her ways. One night her father was leaving her say her prayers before she went to bed. She had gotten to her own little petitions and the "God bless everybody," and her father had gotten just a little inattentive, when he was startled by hearing her say, "And God bless the devil, 'cause nobody cares 'bout him at all."

"Why, Ethel," he exclaimed, "what are you praying for the devil for?"

"Well, father, the preacher always tells how horrid bad he is, and everybody hates him, so I thought I'd better ask God to be good to him."

Ethel's mother had positively forbidden her to play in the creek and to make sure she was obeyed said, "Now, if you do go to the creek, the Lord will see you, and he will tell me. You know he is everywhere and sees you all the time."

One day Ethel came in, and her mother had reason to suspect that she had been to the creek, so she asked her, "Ethel, were you at the creek?"

"No," responded Ethel confidently.

"Now, remember what I told you the other day, the Lord will tell me."

"No, I wasn't there," declared Ethel.

Pretty soon she came back and said, "I just wanted to see if the Lord would be mean enough to tell you. I was down at the creek, and he didn't tell you at all. I didn't think he'd be so mean as to go and tell on me."

Jimmie has been staying in the country all summer with his grandpa, who allows him to assist in all the labors of the farm, and Jimmie thinks that farm could not be run without his valuable assistance. His mother does not appreciate his achievements in that line and would prefer that he kept a little nearer the head of his class.

One day she said to him:

"Jimmie, why aren't you as smart as Willie Brown? He can read splendidly and always knows his lessons."

"Well," replied Jimmie, "maybe he can read pretty well, but he can't manage a farm like I can."—Chicago Tribune.

How Altgeld Explains It All.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 7.—It is the belief of Governor Altgeld that the great Republican landslide was brought about chiefly through the treachery of the national administration and the gold buying of the Democratic party in Wall street. Democratic conventions in many states, he says, were packed by postmasters and henchmen of the administration, who forced the adoption of Cleveland's policy on the money question.

A Noted Singer's Suicide.

FRANKFORD, N. J., Nov. 7.—Herr Lederer, once famous as a singer in Wagnerian opera and also notable as the first to seize the would-be murderer Kullman when he fired at and slightly wounded Prince Bismarck at Kiel on July 31, 1874, committed suicide by shooting himself with a revolver. He was driven to death by extreme poverty, having lost the savings of his life through the defalcations of the absconding Banker Schoenfeld.

The Clyde Strike.

LONDON, Nov. 7.—Practically all the Clyde engineers are idle, as the bulk of them refused to go to work yesterday as a protest against the action of the ship builders, who on Tuesday posted notices locking out 25 per cent. of the employees in their yards. Only members of the unions were locked out. The lockout is in sympathy with the Belfast ship builders, whose employees recently struck work.

Vanished From Room.

"Hello!" called the crossroads specter as a sheeted form went skurrying by. The ghost from the castle stopped and clanked his chain.

"It's all up," he wailed bitterly. "I've quit."

"Quit?" the crossroads specter exclaimed. "What for? Anything wrong?"

"Wrong?" echoed the ghost from the castle in a high key. "What do you think of putting burglar alarms on every door and window? I can't step on a rug or brush against an iron bed without setting 40 bells to ringing! What kind of a way is that to live? I'm sick of it, I tell you, and I've quit."

"Well," the crossroads specter said thoughtfully, "I'll join you."

"You?" the ghost from the castle returned in surprise. "I thought you had a perfectly soft sleep?"

"So I had," the specter made reply, "but they surveyed an electric road through here today and are going to run it every night under a broad glare. What sort of a soft sleep do you call that? I'm with you. With you ghost I will go."

So, joining hands, they struck out for a new country, while over in the farmyard the corkscrew lustedly.—New York Recorder.

One Use of the Bicycle.

Conversation between two charming bicyclists on Plymouth avenue last evening:

Maudie—I can't get him to propose.

Any—Have you tried everything?

Maudie—I think so.

Any—Have you let him see you fall off your bicycle? That's usually a clincher.

Maudie—Thanks! I'll try it.—Union and Advertiser.

A Girl Patriot.

An English girl at school in France began to describe one of our regiments on parade to the French schoolmates, and as she went on she told me the recollection became so vivid she became so proud to be the countrywoman of such soldiers and so sorry to be in another country that her voice failed her and she burst into tears. I have never forgotten that girl, and I think she very nearly deserves a statue. To call her a young lady, with all its unimaging associations, would be to offer her an insult. She may rest assured of one thing, although she never should marry a heroic general, never see any great or immediate result of her life, she will not have lived in vain for her native land.—Robert Louis Stevenson in "An Inland Voyage."

Lags at Her Mast.

The crew in flying a flag at half mast had a most amusing and respectful and respectful of the old naval and military regulations of lowering the flag in time of distress or a sign of submission. A young lady lowered her flag, while the vessel floated his own flag above it. The crew was staff. To lower a flag, however, is a token of respect to one's superior and a sign of mourning and distress.

Dauntful Girl.

Moth—Ethel, did you let George kiss you at the party last night?

Ethel—No, I didn't. You have always told me never to let a young man kiss me, and so before I kissed George good night when he went away I made him promise first to kiss me in return.—Somerset's Journal.

It Would Not Do.

"This paper won't do for our certificates of stock," said the president of a new railway corporation to the secretary.

"It's the usual paper for certificates, sir."

"Can't help it. It won't do. It's watermarked paper and entirely too suggestive for our road."—New York World.

Appreciative.

THE VANDERBILT WEDDING.

Immediate Relatives of the Bride's Father Received No Invitations.

New York, Nov. 7.—Although Mr. W. K. Vanderbilt was present at the wedding of his daughter and the Duke of Marlborough yesterday and gave the bride away, he left the church quietly immediately afterward, and was not present at the wedding breakfast. It was a significant feature of the wedding, and much comment upon that fact of Mr. Vanderbilt's relatives were invited either to the church or the wedding breakfast.

Mr. Cornelius Vanderbilt's house is closed. He and his family are in Newport, and will not return to town for a few days. Mrs. Elliot F. Shepard, Mr. Vanderbilt's sister, and her daughter, Miss Edith Shepard, sailed for Europe yesterday. Mr. George Vanderbilt, F. W. Vanderbilt and Mrs. William H. Vanderbilt were not at the church. The reason for this absence of the Vanderbilt family is said to have been the foundation in the coolness between Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt and the Vanderbilt family as the result of her recent divorce from her husband.

At the wedding breakfast the guests, as they arrived, were greeted in the reception room by the duke and duchess, who, as they stood beneath the huge floral bell, received congratulations. As soon as the guests had all arrived the bride and groom sat down to breakfast. At the breakfast table Sir Julian Pauncefote read the address sent on behalf of the queen and the Prince of Wales, congratulating the duke and newly made duchess upon the occasion of their wedding.

When the duke arose to respond to the toast of the bride and bridegroom the bride slipped away to do her traveling gown, and shortly afterwards the young couple left for Long Island City and took a special train to Ogdensburg, where they will pass a brief honeymoon at W. K. Vanderbilt's country residence, "Idle Hour."

The duke and duchess will visit some points south, notably Richmond, during their honeymoon trip.

Death of a Well Known Actress.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 7.—Mrs. D. P. Bowers, a well known actress who achieved wide reputation as an impersonator of standard characters, died here yesterday. She was attacked with laryngitis last Friday and symptoms of pneumonia developed on Tuesday, but the fatal termination of the illness was unexpected. Mrs. Bowers was a native of Connecticut and was 65 years old. She entered on her stage career at 17.

Two Men Burned to Death.

WHITEPALL, N. Y., Nov. 7.—The canal boat W. H. Saff, laden with hay from Canada bound to New York, was burned in the canal here about 1 o'clock in the morning. Captain Harry Sarton, of Rondout, and Stevedore James Burke, of Waterford, were burned to death. Both men had been drinking hard, and it is thought they in some manner upset a lamp.

Fair Will Settle Out of Court.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 7.—There will be no fair will contest. The estate is settled and divided, and the property has passed into the hands of the various heirs. There is no longer a fair will contest. The trustees have been paid for their services, and their work is over. What promised to be an other case of delay and delay in a compromise. A probable case involving $400,000 and promising to employ the courts and attorneys interested for some years to come has been settled out of court.

Mrs. Gouggar's Libel Suit.

BOSTON, Nov. 7.—The $25,000 damage suit of Mrs. Helen M. Gouggar, the well known temperance worker, against Congressman Elijah A. Morse for alleged libel, was reopened for a second trial in the United States circuit court before Judge Pitman yesterday. Hon. Harvey N. Shepard is counsel for the complainant while Mr. Morse is represented by ex-Governor Robinson and H. F. Basswell.

Indians Surprise Yale's Footballists.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 7.—The Yale football team gave Yale a surprise on the gridiron yesterday afternoon. The blue only scored 10 points. Twice the Indians had the ball on Yale's ten yard line. Their backs and center men were superior to Yale's, and they made several brilliant runs.

Serious Football Accident.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 7.—The most serious football accident of the season occurred at Yale yesterday. Ben Cheney, halfback, fractured his collar bone in a scrimmage. He will be laid up the rest of the year.

Death of the Duc d'Anjou.

PARIS, Nov. 7.—Charles Francis Marie, Duc d'Anjou, heir of the French throne, died here yesterday. He was 18 years old and had been a member of the chamber of deputies and a member of the army in this city.

Deafness Cannot be Cured.

By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure Deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

THE ARGUS.

C. MACARDELL, PUBLISHER.

GEORGE H. THOMPSON, EDITOR.
C. MACARDELL, JR., CITY EDITOR.
J. F. ROBINSON, BUSINESS MANAGER.

THURSDAY, NOV. 7, 1895.

Bob Ingersoll has recanted. He now denies that he ever said he "would believe in hell when the Republicans carried Kentucky."

Ex-Inspector Alex. S. Williams blames Parkhurst for his defeat in the Twelfth Senate District. He says that if the great reformer had made six speeches against him instead of one, he'd have won "hands down."

An analysis of the vote of New York city shows that the State Democracy's strength was not more than 10,000 votes. The Republican leaders say that they were badly bungled when they were induced to go into a fusion movement and divide nominations with an organization which, while professing to control 30,000 votes, was barely a skeleton.

A line of bicycle paths to connect all the principal places in Central New York is projected and it is possible that the idea will be carried into effect within a year or two. The paths being intended for use only during the open season can be built at small cost. The significance of this movement in favor of bicycle paths lies in the fact that it is an admission by the wheelmen that they have had to abandon their attempt to coerce the people of the State into spending vast sums of money in improving the highways for their special benefit.

The Vanderbilt-Marlborough wedding was a veritable godsend to the editors of the Democratic papers in New York. Descriptions of the wedding with its flowers and music and brave array of fair women in fine raiment were much more interesting than columns of stupid election figures, which could only interest Republicans. And it was a much more pleasant duty to express good will for the American Duchess than to attempt to explain a defeat so complete and overwhelming that no amount of explanation can mitigate its horrors.

The total vote of this city was 2,455-437 less than the registration, which was 237 short of last year's figures. Assuming that there was a full registration last year, these figures show that 694 citizens of Middletown, or over one fifth of the voting population, cared so little about the result of the election that they did not think it worth while to go to the polls. Uncertainty as to their ability to master the supposed intricacies of the blanket ballot may have deterred some from voting, but the very large number of stay-at-homes confirms the information received by the Argus, Monday, that the Republican corruption fund was used in hiring Democrats to refrain from voting.

Knew the Wrong Man.
The trial of the suit of William McKenna against William Burke, to recover $200 damages for falling into an excavation in front of a building was begun, to-day, before Justice Wiggins. After much evidence had been offered it came out that Mr. Burke did not own the building.

Again Laying Brick.
Brick laying at Franklin Square was begun, this morning. The sidewalk committee hopes the paving will wear better than it looks.

Twenty-Six Bodies Recovered.

Fifteen More Believed to Be in the Ruins of the Journal Building.

DETROIT, Nov. 7.—By 12 o'clock twenty-six bodies in all had been taken from the ruins of the wrecked Journal building and three more were in sight. These bodies have been identified as those of John Breitberger, Rose Morgan and Kittie Leonard.

It is believed that fifteen bodies are still in the ruins. The exploded boiler was uncovered at 9 o'clock, and the cause of the explosion found to be that the boiler had been allowed to go dry.

AN OVERDUE LAKE STEAMER.

SALE OF TICKETS UNPRECEDENTED.

No wonder that hundreds of seats have already been sold for Carleton Night, away in advance of date. That is always the way, whenever he goes into an intellectual community. There is no other man in the world could do it.

Even opera companies, with scores of actors and car loads of scenery, have to admit that this one man, who promises nothing except himself and the reciting of his own productions, ranks them as a "drawing card."

It has been the same thing, over and over again, from Boston to San Francisco. In Tremont Temple they packed the house and hundreds stood up besides to see and hear him; and that was the key note to hundreds of other places.

It will be well worth while to get your seat now; they are going fast. Get them as near him as you can; but remember this: You can hear every word from any part of the house. Get a seat though and when you see the sign "standing room only," don't be one of the standers,

HER MARRIAGE A FAILURE.

A SIXTEEN-YEAR-OLD WIFE ATTEMPTS SUICIDE.

Preferred Death to Living With Her Brutal Husband—Had Run Away From Him Three Times—His Continued Persecutions Made Her Desperate—A Very Placid Story of the Dark Side of Life—Sent to Jail to Save Her from a Worse Fate.

Josephine Conkling-Volante, a sixteen-year-old girl, wife of Joseph Volante, an Italian track hand, employed by the Erie at Port Jervis, attempted suicide at her mother's home on Canal street, last evening, by drinking a quantity of laudanum. A ten-year-old sister informed her mother of her sister's rash act and Mrs. Nelson and Shultz were at once summoned. By heroic efforts and the aid of a stomach pump the poison was extracted from the girl's stomach, but it was necessary to walk her about for several hours to counteract the effects of the drug. She was turned over to the police and was placed in the lockup, where she was attended by the physicians nearly all night, and at 3 o'clock she was taken to police headquarters, where a cot was placed for her to rest upon.

This morning, although very weak and still suffering from the effects of the poison, she told the following story to an Argus reporter:

Some months ago, she met the Italian, Volante, and he wanted her to marry him and she refused. She claims that he repeatedly struck her because she refused him, and that finally yielding to her mother's demands and his pleadings, on Sept. 10th, she, accompanied by her mother, Minnie Sherman and the Italian, went to Rev. Dr. Beattie to be married. That gentleman, however, refused to perform the ceremony, when he learned that the girl was only ten days over sixteen years of age.

The party then went to the residence of Rev. F. L. Wilson, D. D., of St. Paul's M. E. Church, where, the girl alleges, at the command of Volante and her mother, she gave her age as nineteen, and the ceremony was performed. She went to Port Jervis with her husband, but his brutality caused her to run away. He followed her and took her back, and she again ran away. Again she went back, and several weeks ago she left him for the third time and went to Orr's Mills, where she found a situation as servant with a family named Wood.

Learning of her whereabouts, Volante, accompanied by a man named Brundage, with whom the girl's mother is living in this city, went to Orr's Mills, at a late hour Saturday night, and demanded to see the girl. One of the Wood boys, George, told the fellow to go away. He did so, but returned Sunday morning, and renewed his demands. He was again told to leave, but refused to do so. The disfigurement of his face in the vicinity of his eyes bears testimony to the force of the arguments young Wood employed in forcing him to vacate the premises.

Yesterday Volante sent a young woman, Minnie Hardick, to Orr's Mills to plead his case and she returned with Josephine on the 6 o'clock train.

Volante met her at the Main street depot and took her to her mother's home on Canal street, where she alleges he threatened to kill her if she did not remain with him or if she attempted to run away again.

She then came up town with her little sister and purchased ten cents worth of laudanum, and returned to the house where the quarrel was renewed. She then stepped into the bedroom and swallowed more than half the contents of the vial, with the result above related.

Volante is a repulsive looking man with a bad record. He was arrested in this city, about a year or more ago, for an attempted assault with a revolver upon Nicholas Meola, at the O. and W. coal pockets. He has figured in several Italian brawls since then.

The would-be suicide is a fairly good looking blonde who evidently has had an experience with the world far greater than that of most girls of her age. She claims that her father, Conkling, is at work at Westtown, and that her mother is living with the man Brundage.

There was no section of the code by which she could be admitted to the reformatory, the crime of suicide being classed as a felony and persons guilty of felony are not admitted to the institution.

Volante was also outside the pale of the law, and the Recorder was about to discharge the girl when Captain Grier entered a complaint against her for attempted suicide. He did so because he feared that if the girl in her present condition and state of mind was allowed to return to her former surroundings she would make another attempt upon her life.

She was therefore taken to Goshen to await the action of the Grand Jury, which meets next week.

MYMENE.

There was a quiet wedding at No. 11 Highland avenue, at 3 o'clock, this afternoon, when Miss Annie G. Taylor and Mr. George W. Young were united in marriage.

Only relatives and a few intimate friends of the contracting parties were present. The parlors and dining room were handsomely decorated, white chrysanthemums being used in the parlors and peat roses in the dining room. The decorations were by Mrs. Belding.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Dr. Gordon, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, assisted by Rev. Dr. Wilson, pastor of St. Paul's M. E. Church.

Mr. J. C. R. Taylor, brother of the bride, acted as best man and Mr. Hamilton R. Taylor, of Pine Bush, another brother, gave the bride away.

The bride wore a dress of royal blue and black crepon and carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

After the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served and Mr. and Mrs. Young were then driven to the Erie depot where they took train 2 for New York. They will be absent about a week and after their return will take up their residence at No. 14 Highland avenue, where they will be at home to their friends after Dec. 1st.

The bride received a large number of presents, many of them of very considerable value. Among them were a diamond pendant from the groom and fifty shares of stock of the Western Union Telegraph Co., the par value of which is $5,000.

The bride's present to the groom was a diamond ring.

The bride is a daughter of the late A. R. Taylor, of Pine Bush. She has resided in this city for several years, and has made many friends who hold her in highest esteem.

The groom is proprietor of the large clothing store on East Main street. He has resided here since 1893. He is a successful business man, one of Middletown's best citizens and a popular member of Excelsior Hook and Ladder Company.

The Argus extends its hearty congratulations and has the best wishes for the future happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Young.

An Erie Brakeman Loses Both Legs.

Patrick J. Giblin, of Hawley, a brakeman on Conductor Martin Harrison's train, was returning from the oil house in Port Jervis, yesterday afternoon, with supplies for his train, and getting off of engine 253 on which he was riding stopped in front of yard engine 429. Both legs were run over and almost completely severed just below the knees. He was taken to the hospital.

Five Dollars for a Pall of Coal.

William Pender, of Port Jervis, was fined $5 by Justice McCormick, yesterday, for stealing a pall of coal from an Erie car. He might have better invested the five dollars in a ton of coal.

ENTERTAINED THE GRAND MASTER

Odd Fellows Receive a Fraternal Visit from the Highest State Officer.

Grand Master A. A. Guthrie, of Albany, paid the Odd Fellows of this city a fraternal visit yesterday afternoon and evening.

In the afternoon he met with Martha Washington Lodge and made an address to the ladies and afterwards sat down to an elegant lunch in the banquet hall.

In the evening, members of Middletown Lodge met with Luther Lodge in Odd Fellows' Hall and received the Grand Master, who delivered an address, in which he explained to the new law and expressed his pleasure at the prosperous condition of the order in this city.

The degree team of Middletown Lodge worked the third degree and were complimented by Mr. Guthrie for the excellence of the work.

At the close of the meeting a banquet was served and afterwards the members and their guests adjourned to Masonic Hall, where a pleasant hour was spent.

TUBERCULOSIS IN THE COUNTY HERD

Twenty Head of Cattle at Orange Farm
Condemned by a State Inspector.

About a week ago, a cow in the herd at Orange Farm, died, and an autopsy showed that her lungs were badly diseased. Fearing that other cattle in the herd might be infected, the State Health Board was communicated with and Dr. Furst, of Poughkeepsie, an inspector of cattle, was sent to Orange Farm. He arrived, Tuesday, and injected tuberculin into the twenty-five cows and one bull composing the county herd. Yesterday, he decided that nineteen cows and one bull were diseased and condemned them to death.

Supervisors Bradley, of Wawandanda, and Wells, of Goshen, were summoned to appraise the cattle for the county, and under the law the county will pay one-half the value of the condemned animals.

The cattle will be killed, to day, under the supervision of Dr. Furst. Garabrant has purchased the carcasses and will convert them into fertilizers.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. David A. Luke.

Mrs. David A. Luke, daughter of the late James Newsome, of Middletown, died in Middletown, Nov. 5. She is survived by the following sisters and brothers: Emma T. of Newburgh; Susan, widow of the late Ed. DeHart, of Newburgh; Ella E., wife of A. C. Bowers, of this city; Hannah, wife of Joshua Oldroyd, of Howell; and William Newsome, of this city, and James Newsome, of Howell. Her husband also survives her.

The remains will be brought to this city on the 10:45 train, Friday, and interred in the Phillipsburgh Cemetery.

ERIE DEPOT BURNED.

The Station Building at Callicoon Totally Destroyed.

The Erie depot at Callicoon was totally destroyed by fire, Tuesday night. It was discovered at 11:15 o'clock and was so well under way at the time that, with the primitive means of fighting fire in the village, it could not be extinguished and in less than two hours the building was in ashes.

There seem to be very good reasons to suspect incendiarism.

VETERAN VOLUNTEER FIREMEN.

On the Same Footing as War Veterans as Regards Municipal Offices.

Judge Barnard, of Poughkeepsie, handed down an important decision, yesterday, placing veteran volunteer firemen on the same footing with veteran soldiers, and holding that they cannot be removed from a municipal position without cause. It was ordered that DeWitt Woodin, who was removed from the position of meter inspector by the Republican Board of Water Commissioners of Poughkeepsie be reinstated, the decision covering his case.

North Riding Mites to See.

"Drove twenty miles to hear him on two different occasions. This is what one family said of Will Carleton in one of the Pennsylvania counties." ## BLACK THAT WILL NEVER FADE.

EASY TO DYE WITH THE FAST BLACK DIAMOND DYES

Clothing of all kinds readily made a rich, full black—Three special Fast Blacks for Wool, for Silk and Feathers, for Cotton and Mixed Goods.

Until recently it was thought impossible to dye goods black without crocking and fading, but three special Fast Black Diamond Dyes are easy to use and will make colors that never fade or wash out.

Mrs. Lou Chamberlain, of St. Louis, in a recent letter, writes: "I have used the Fast Black Diamond Dyes with good success, dyeing a coat and vest for my husband that previously had been dyed at the dye house but had faded out. Two packages of the Black Diamond Dye gave a rich, full black and the coat and vest look to-day as good as new and have not faded the least bit, although they have been worn six months in sun and rain."

Mrs. E. E. Hartley, an Eastern woman, in telling of her first experience with Diamond Dyes, writes: "Being a novice in dyeing, I may safely say that the plain directions on the Diamond Dye packages will enable any intelligent person to use them with good results. I dyed a faded spring overcoat of my husband's with a package of Fast Black Diamond Dye, and it looks like new. The dye would have charged me $2.50, but I did it for ten cents and got a perfectly satisfactory color."

Be sure that you get Diamond Dyes when you want to dye suits, gowns, cloaks, ribbons, stockings, shawls, etc., and then you will have colors that are unfading and true to name.

THE STEMMER BRAKE AND FENDER

An Improvement Made—A Test Given To-day.

Mr. Paul Stemmler, of Walden, the inventor of an automatic fender and brake, for electric street cars, has greatly improved the machine by adding another pair of shoes for the rear wheels so that when the brake is dropped all the wheels mount the shoes and are lifted clear of the rails, when the car stops instantly.

Mr. Stemmler and some Walden friends were in town to-day, and tested the new brake on one of the Traction Co.'s cars, and were more than pleased with the result.

Kilmer Wire Works May Go On

At a meeting of the creditors of the Kilmer Manufacturing Company, of Newburgh, held in New York, yesterday, a committee was appointed to investigate the condition of the business with a view to its continuance by the receivers. The assets are sufficient to pay creditors about sixty per cent. of their claims. It is believed that if the works are run by the receivers creditors can be paid in full.

Stricken Down In Court

William H. Dieffenbach, plaintiff in a suit to recover $75,000 damages from the Erie for injuries which he claimed he sustained in a smash up in 1903, while on his way from New York to Binghamton, was stricken with apoplexy while giving his testimony in the New York Court of Common Pleas, yesterday. He has offered to settle for $1,000 but the railroad would pay but $1,500, and the suit for $75,000 was then brought.

A Railroad Deal Under Way.

Hood's Pills act early, yet promptly and effectively, on the liver and bowels. 25c.

ERIE ROAD SOLD AT AUCTION.

Bought in by the Reorganization Committee for $20,000,000.

The New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad was sold at auction, yesterday, at Ramapo, N. Y., under the foreclosure of the second mortgage. This step was simply a formality in connection with the reorganization of the property.

There were present at the sale Receiver John J. McCullough, Francis Lynde Stetson and several other lawyers. The entire Erie system proper was knocked down for $20,000,000 to the Reorganization Committee which consists of C. H. Oster, Louis Fitzgerald and A. J. Thomas.

The road will be transferred to a new company the securities of which will be issued at an early date. The holders of the common stock of the old company have been called upon to pay an assessment of $12 and the holders of the preferred stock $8, to retire the floating debt and furnish working capital.

UP THE MIDLAND.

The Well Managed O. and W.—The Lewbeach Telephone Line—Downville's Railroad Project.

Correspondence Argus and Mercury.

During the year now drawing to a close there have been fewer accidents on the Ontario and Western than in any previous year of its history since it became a trunk road. Its trains have been on time to a minute with only here and there an exception caused by its connections. Its rolling stock has been heartily increased and improved and comfort and reliability seems to be the aim of every one connected with its operation. What a change from the old O. and W. Midland that is always brought to mind by the head lines of this column.

The telephone line between Roseland station and Lewbeach will be in talking order in a month. The last named place was named after the lamented Lewis Beach, of your county, and while at that time it was far from the maddening crowd, it will soon be able to talk with the rest of the world. The world moves and Lewbeach is determined to keep up with the procession.

A railroad to Downville is again attracting attention. It is to be an electric road this time and it looks as if it wouldn't end in wind. No man living has ever done as much to get railroad connections with that thrifty little inland village as Editor Peck of the News, and if he should ever succeed his brethren outside will of necessity have to tender him an ovation on the first train. An electric road between East Branch and Downville would pay from the start and need not be expensive provided it could be run along the highway and cross the river bridges at East Branch. Such a road would add two car loads of milk a day to the New York supply within a year after it was built.

G. N. PREDMORE & SON

Something that Interests You!

New stock underwear for men, women and children in red, grey and white. A large stock to select from. Special to-day. Thirty-five dozen vests and pants at 25c each. Three bales comfortable, the best goods in town for the money. Compare goods and prices. Woolen hosiery for men, women and children, all sizes. Canton flannel, domets, all wool flannels, calicoes, muslins, domestics of all kinds. We pay particular attention to our Dress Goods Department. We are agents for the Jamestown Worsted Mills, and we know we have a good thing. The public evidently appreciates our efforts in this direction, as our sales are larger in this line than ever before. If in want of a dress, buy the 'Jamestown.'
